Letter from the President

Louisiana Christian University has been providing Christian higher education in Central Louisiana since 1906. As the school has grown and flourished, the culture has changed significantly. The Lord has honored LCU and blessed us in ways it would have been hard for our founders to have imagined a hundred years ago.

From a handful of students in those early days to now—achieving university status with 70 areas of study, including five graduate programs, 13 varsity sports teams, and fully online degree programs—LCU has prospered. The Lord has shown his favor.

Today, we are witnessing American society shift away from the truth, away from the Church, away from the founding principles that made this country a great Christian nation. And with that, many small Christian colleges and universities are struggling or have closed.

As culture continues to crumble, it is our responsibility—our calling—to remain steadfast in our Christian convictions. We know we are to be set apart from the ways of the world and to raise up our children to be men and women of God.

At Louisiana Christian University, our message is relevant, our academics are rigorous, and our faculty and staff are able build relationships with students in which the Lord is honored. Faith is not abandoned at the classroom door. It is an integral part of our teaching and mentoring of students.

This year we have nationally renowned Christian apologist Frank Turek discuss why evil happens in the world. “Duck Dynasty’s” Al and Lisa Robertson shared their journey to faith and the healing from abortion. And the Rev. Robert Freeman addressed the need for racial reconciliation in our nation.

We are addressing the issues that our young people are facing in today’s world—and arming them with the Christian response.

We’ve been ranked as a ‘Top 30 Christian College’ by a national research group and continually recognized for our safety and diversity.

We covet your prayers for LCU and our mission to prepare graduates and transform lives.

And if the Lord wills you to support us financially, there are many ways to give. You may visit our webpage (lcuniversity.edu/give) for more information about how to give.

Finally, thank you for those of you who are already supporting LCU. We appreciate you. For those of you who may not know about us yet. You are always invited and encouraged to join us for Chapel or any events. For more information about LCU, visit our website at lcuniversity.edu.

We are forever grateful for the support we receive from our Louisiana Baptist church family through your prayers, students, and gifts through the Cooperative Program.

Keep Pressing On,
Dr. Rick Brewer

CAMPUS REVIVAL 2023

Dr. Heath Peloquin spoke for LCU's Spring Revival 2023. Peloquin serves as senior pastor of Summer Grove Baptist Church in Shreveport. LCU's ensembles Voices and Elevate lead worship to a packed auditorium, ushering in the presence of the Lord.

Dr. Peloquin encouraged all in attendance by reminding them the Lord knows exactly what each and every person needs and has not forgotten His promises to them.

Students, faculty, and staff filled the altar in prayerful surrender at the end of the week -- some in rededication, others in heartfelt submission. LCU holds a three day revival each semester for students, faculty, and staff as an outpouring of the mission and expression of the calling the Lord gave our founders many years ago.

We pray the Lord will continue to open doors and opportunities like Campus Revival for Louisiana Christian University to be used for His glory and honor.

C.S. LEWIS HONORS FORUM

Ten students presented research during the 3rd Annual C.S. Lewis Honors Forum at Louisiana Christian University.

The interdisciplinary research project is the final requirement in fulfillment of the C.S. Lewis Honors Program.

"The University's C.S. Lewis Honors Scholars' annual presentations serve as a solid reminder that great work can happen at a smaller university," said LCU President Dr. Rick Brewer. "I am grateful for the professors who shepherd our students toward incredible, creative research underscoring the application of Colossians 3:17."

"The Honors Forum clearly demonstrates that LCU is providing an unshakeable Christian foundation while expecting academic excellence across all disciplines," Provost and Vice President of Academic Affairs Dr. Cheryl Clark said. "The students' interdisciplinary research projects show they understand, recognize and embrace the inseparable connection between their calling and career."

LCU STARTING SCHOLARS ACADEMY

Louisiana Christian University launches the Louisiana Christian Scholars Academy this fall for high school students looking for a serious jump-start on their college studies.

It is designed to offer high school students 60 hours of college credit over two full years," said LCU President Dr. Rick Brewer. "They will earn an associate of arts degree in general studies.

The best part—the cost of the program is only $2500 per semester for 15 hours of credit, including textbooks. Any level high school student who meets the ACT of 20 and academic criteria is eligible to participate.

Students may attend remotely or attend classes on campus. LCSA students will receive LCU Student IDs and will be welcome to attend campus activities, athletic events, Chapel, Baptist Collegiate Ministry events, cultural events and have access to the LAC.

A LOOK AT ATHLETICS

The LCU Wildcats athletics teams have all enjoyed outstanding seasons during the 22-23 academic year and have become a force in the NAIA and the Red River Athletic Conference.

Every team sport that had to qualify for the postseason RRAC tournament either did so or are in a position to qualify for their upcoming tournaments. The men's and women's basketball teams and the volleyball team each advanced to the conference semifinals, while the men's soccer team played in the conference championship match. The football team went 7-4, finished in the top half of the Sooner Athletic Conference standings, and defeated two nationally-ranked teams - one of them SAC co-champion Texas Wesleyan.

Senior football player Micah Latin was named the Sooner Athletic Conference's Defensive Player of the Year and earned NAIA All-America Honors from the Associated Press and the National Football Coaches Association. Senior women's basketball player Miya McKinney was named the Red River Athletic Conference's Player of the Year for her sport.
